WELCOME TO The House of the Three Kings

The Three Kings were welcomed into God's own home as pilgrims and this House will be a place where all visitors will be welcomed to find their connection to Bethlehem's arts, culture and history.

As the Three Kings were the first pilgrims who traveled to Bethlehem, they came from different cultures and allowed themselves to be transformed. The House of the Three Kings will similarly transform the cultural climate and people of Bethlehem, as well as the minds and hearts of visiting pilgrims.

At the House, residents of the city of Bethlehem will find a place to learn new vocational skills, find social support, and reconnect with their cultures. Moreover, both the local community and visitors will find history, art, and inspiration as they bond through friendship and a social connection.

THE PROJECT

To rescue and renovate an abandoned historic property in Bethlehem just steps from the Church of the Nativity and Manger Square and transform it to become a Center for:

VOCATION, SUPPORT, CULTURE, ART

Vocation: Professional and vocational training, guidance and support along with a co-working space to pursue startup projects leading to the creation of new small business opportunities.

Young Palestinians attend vocational workshop

Support: Listening and support area where social workers offer counseling and psychological support for various social issues within the community.

Fr. David meets with women in Bethlehem

Culture: Event and cultural center where visitors from all over the world will be welcomed to find their connection to Bethlehem's culture and history.

Youth on a tour of historic Bethlehem

Art: A space where local artisans will work with olive wood, mother of pearl, traditional embroidery, mosaics, ceramics and glass leading to the creation of new retail opportunities.

Women practicing the art of traditional mosaics

Bethlehem is the cradle of Christianity and therefore hosts more than two-million tourists and pilgrims annually. As people from all over the world come on pilgrimage to the Church of the Nativity, mere steps away there will be a unique opportunity at the House of the Three Kings to share culture, history, and art.
